

Rooftop Lab Report Peer Reading Guide Blue Team 2010-2011

Lab Report Author's Name: _____ Peer Reader's Name: _____

Paragraph 1 – Description of the Rooftop Task

Does the paragraph describe the lab process accurately? Circle YES or NO below; then, fill out the appropriate responses under the YES or NO column. If it's a little of both, it's ok to fill out some of both columns! If you need more room, put answers on the back.

YES	NO
Here's one example of why:	There's not enough detail. Here's what the author left out:
Here's another example of why:	It's too wordy. Here's how the author should be less wordy: It's overly detailed. Here are some details the author could remove:

Paragraph 2 – Description of the Calculations and Dimensional Analysis

Does the paragraph effectively summarize each of the calculations explained? Circle YES or NO below; then fill out the appropriate responses under the YES or NO column. If it's a little of both, it's ok to fill out some of both columns! If you need more room, put answers on the back.

YES	NO
Here's one example of why:	There's not enough detail. Here's what the author left out:
Here's another example of why:	It's too wordy. Here's how the author should be less wordy: It's overly detailed. Here are some details the author could remove:

For the entire lab report, give FOUR examples below of proper use of vocabulary. Then, give TWO suggestions for even better vocabulary. Math terms are especially appropriate here.

Strong, Precise Vocabulary Examples	Suggestions for Better Vocabulary
1.	Weak Word 1:
2.	Replacement Word 1:
3.	Weak Word 2:
4.	Replacement Word 2:

For the entire lab report, give examples below of effective transitions. Then, give TWO ideas for even better transition choices.

Effective Transition 1:	Weak Transition 1:
	Replacement Transition 1:
Effective Transition 2:	Weak Transition 2:
	Replacement Transition 2: